

CREATIVE STREETS 2022

CALL FOR PARTICIPANTS

“An international summercamp, one week of creative activities in Luxembourg with a group art exhibition at the end”

What is the Creative Streets project?

Creative Streets is above all a social experience – it is a platform which gathers young people to give them the possibility to celebrate values of peace and tolerance through alternative ways of communication such as visual art and music.

Why? What are the objectives?

The first objective of Creative Streets is to bring people from different countries together and create an intercultural exchange, using the arts in the broadest sense as a common platform of communication. This will broaden the participants' horizon and reinforce mutual respect and tolerance.

The second objective is to send out a message of peace to the public. Young people are the future and therefore it is their responsibility to foster a peaceful social climate. It is a project organised by young people for young people in order to ensure a sustainable future.

What would you be doing?

You would come to Luxembourg for one week and get to know fellow creative people. During this week, you will take part in different activities (art, music and thematic workshops) and you will also learn how to hold art workshops for different audiences and enhance your team work skills. You will have the chance to create, explore and share creative skills and showcase your art in a group exhibition at the end of the week.

Creative Streets 2022 – Mental wellbeing

In a society where mental health has become a major challenge that is not yet being properly addressed, we have decided to focus this edition of Creative Streets on the topic of mental wellbeing. Especially these last months have been very trying for everyone and young people in particular have been isolated. Various activities and discussions will address these topics.
